

How do you get to Mandø?

The main road to Mandø is named Låningsvejen. This goes all the way from the dike at the main land to the isle. Låningsvejen end up with connection to an asphalt road "Annelbankevej" which connects you to the rest of the isle. This road has been the main way of transportation since the 1887. I case of storm the road can be close with wood and sand bags.

The road system on the isle is limited to the "Annelbankevej" which goes to Mandø city and its two roads bærmevejen/digevejen. The two latter roads goes all around the isle close to the dike.

Låningsvejen is public and can be used, if you know about the tides. The tide information is found on our home page, or at the store on Mandø. Låningsvejen is covered with small stones/gravel and is raised approx. 60 cm above sea level. The road is secured though land reclamation activities, by using of fascines on both sides.

Ebbevejen may only be used, by the tractors, which transport tourists, mail and students back and forward from the isle. The tractors also needs to consider the tide, or else they will also be stuck in the rising water. Old branches secure the Ebbevejen, which originates from the Ribe-dike construction back in 1914. From time to time tourist has ended up on this road and then been caught by the fast rising tide.

Shopping?

You can do your daily shopping on Mandø in the local store. In the high season, the opening time of the store is like all normal Danish stores. You can gain more information about when it is open by passing by the store.

If you wish to go out and eat, then the local dinner places serves delicious meals.

Arrival and departure

Due to the tide, weather and wind the arrival and departure times can differ. This will in some cases give overlapping guests between you who departs and you who arrives.

If weather, wind and tide are as normal, the apartment will be free/available at 15:00 a clock and the departure is latest at 11:00 a clock. If one of the nature conditions are at play, the departure can be extended to 15:00 a clock.

Remember to check all conditions before heading over "Vadehavet" (Wadden Sea). You can check these conditions on www.dmi.dk under vandstand (water level).

You can find more information regarding the water level on the web page www.ribebrandvaesen.dk, or call the hot-line, at +45 75422924 which will tell you the current water level at the Kammersluse which is Danish normal level.

The nature

The nature of Mandø's is vulnerable, and therefore you have to take into account where you are driving so you do not disturb the animal life more than necessary.

Respect the animal and their life and watch them at a distance rather than disturbing them. Read the signs place around Mandø, which informs you about the nature.

In early spring, you will be able to see thousands of geese, which lands on Mandø to feed before continuing further north. In fall, the geese returns, to feed before continuing south. This is an impressive sight of nature, which you should not miss.

South of Mandø, you will find Koresand, which is a large sandbank in the middle of the Vadehavet. Koresand is twenty square kilometers large. The sandbank is flooded when a storm occurs. This prevent plant life and permanent dunes are rising. Koresand is an isle when the tide is high, but at low tide, it's connected with Mandø.

In the high season, you can participate in trips to Koresand, where you can get really close to a large seal colony. Koresand is also a great sand beach, where you can bath and be lucky to find ambers.
